Expansion of the city and county garbage collection service is on a fair way for accomplishment with the call for tenders for a two-ton auto truck, authorized by the Board of City and County Supervisors at a meeting held last night.

The districts of Kaimuki, Palolo, Makiki, Nuuanu and other more distant portions of the municipality are said to be in line to receive the service with the acquisition of a larger and more speedy conveyance.

The Board is in the market for a suitable truck and took opportunity last evening to invite bids from all the local automobile firms in the city. The new truck will have to be purchased from the lowest bidder. It is predicted that at least six local dealers will get into the game with a view of furnishing the conveyance which it is believed will cost in the neighborhood of four thousand dollars.

A mainland concern has come forward with the offer of a preparation which is guaranteed to exterminate weeds from sidewalks and parks. The road committee has been asked to investigate the claims of the remedy.

It appears that there is a certain faction in Kaimuki which opposes the proposed expenditure by the city and county of $1600 to open up Sixth Avenue. The contention is raised that the sum is too great to be expended upon one thoroughfare.

Work was ordered begun on the macadamizing of one side of Beretania avenue. Four thousand dollars have been appropriated for this improvement.

LLOYD OSBURN'S DEATH EXPECTED

Stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson Well Known in Honolulu

Lloyd Osbourne, stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson and writer of short stories, is dying in Santa Barbara, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson.

To friends here in San Francisco has come the word that Osbourne is not expected to live more than a very few days, and in anticipation of the end his two young sons, who make their home here, have been summoned to Santa Barbara.

Osbourne's wife has made her home in San Francisco since the domestic difficulties which resulted in a separation of herself and the writer. To her was awarded the custody of the two boys. For several years neither the father nor the grandmother has seen either of the sons of the Osbournes, and their call to the Southern city to their grandmother's home was in response to a wish expressed by their father to see them again.

Suffered Long in Silence.

The disclosure of the domestic strife in the Osbourne family came in 1909, after seven years of suffering in silence, according to Mrs. Osbourne.

The entire trouble between husband and wife was laid by the daughter-in-law to the door of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson. The domineering will of the mother was the beginning of the trouble which resulted in Osbourne's leaving his wife and two children and going to New York, said Mrs. Osbourne.

From there, away from the influence of his mother, he wrote to his wife, but there has never been any chance for a reconciliation. From the earliest days of their married life, according to statements made at the time of the separation, Mrs. Stevenson kept the fires of discord and unhappiness burning.

Shortly after the separation alimony troubles arose, and Mrs. Osbourne was obliged to make a fight for maintenance for her two children. The boys, who are now in their teens, have been educated in San Francisco. He written Successful Stories.

Osbourne has written a number of very successful stories. Magazine work and novels have appeared from time to time with marked approval of the public. He has, however, never made a financial success of his work.

At the time of his wife's suit he alleged that he was dependent upon his mother to meet his demands. He permitted his wife to take possession of the Stevenson house, at Hyde and Lombard streets, and there she has made her home until recently.

Osbourne asked at the time of the filing of the suit for the custody of one of the children, but that was denied him.

His illness dates back several weeks. He is 44 years old.

Lloyd Osbourne is well-known in Honolulu having lived here with the famous author his stepfather at San Souci.

MONEY LOANED ON PUNCHBOWL LOTS

A report of comprehensive financial aid having been proffered to owners of Punchbowl lots under the big new deal, to enable them to make improvements, in keeping with the projected reform of street conditions in that section, was investigated by a Star-Bulletin reporter today. It was found that no omnibus scheme of aiding the property owners in question was in existence, yet that there was money available for the purpose stated upon the security of the land, from a trust institution, to the limit of funds that could be spared for that particular object of investment.

"The Guardian Trust Company made a loan to one Portuguese owner of land on Punchbowl," said A. F. Judd this morning, "but there was no general offer of assistance to the owners of those lots."

"This man came back and asked if similar accommodation could be given to two or three of his friends. We told him that we would lend money on good security to anyone, as we were in that business. I suppose this is how the report originated that a wholesale offer of assistance to the Punchbowl owners had been made."

Mr. Judd is temporarily in charge of the Guardian Trust Company's real estate branch.

JUDD AND BREWER BUILDINGS JOINED

People have wondered lately at seeing the Justices of the Supreme Court passing in and out of the main entrance to the Judd building, and not any more using the entrance to the upper floor of the C. Brewer & Co. building where the court is temporarily located. The reason is simply that, in connection with the alterations the Bank of Hawaii is making to the Judd building now owned by it, a doorway with fire-proof doors has been made between the Judd and the Brewer buildings at the second floors. This enables all having business or offices in the Brewer building to use the Judd building elevator, a convenience that the Brewer building does not have, as it is only a two-story structure.
